That is an extent to which partisanship will not extent to the extent of the exte people to vote for the superior democratic ticket. How vastly would it redeem itself if it did come out and manfully declare that it would support the democratic as the better ticket of the

The poor Tribune is in a bad way for an argument in favor of Cannon, and equally so, for one against Rawlins. Frankie is a "brighter" man says the Trib., and it would have the voters remember that fact but it magnanimously says Rawlins is a fine lawyer. Joe's fine lawyership and good, sound, old-fashioned horse-sense served Utah pretty well last session and may be safely trusted to do it again next. Ab! but Frankie is a "magnetic, winsome" man, So is Ed. Loose, but Ed. wine some at poker, but still for allithat we OCT, 8, 1894 Jon't propose to send him to congress. It brings tears to our eyes to see the Enquirer defending the character of Judge Jones, these days. Time was when it was different, and not so long since either.

Frank Cannon is a raw, untried experiment. Joe Rawlins is a seasoned and well approved success. The people of Utah are not for experimental statesmanship.
